TRANSLATIONS

From the Political Journal of Hamburgh, 1798.

ITALY.

The first-born daughter of the French domination, in Italy, the Cisalpine republic, is treated by the mother republic as a step-child, and governed with such a wavering inconsistency, as is not likely or calculated to conciliate her affection, or endear the new state of things to the discontented people. Revolution follows after revolution, and one arbitrary stroke is instantly succeeded by another. This young republic, whose political existence is scarcely sixteen months old, has already in so short a space of time experienced four convulsive shocks and entire changes of government. The political revolution, which had been effected by the French ambassador, Trouve, had not reached the end of two months, when the order of things, which had then been established, was again annihilated.

The same derangement of finances, which seems to be the characteristic feature of the newly established republics in Europe, pervaded also the public concerns in Rome. Notwithstanding every kind of exertion and contributions, the scarcity of money was daily increasing. The people, though already exhausted, must pay a tax on their lands of two per cent. to defray the ordinary expenditures, which amount to one million scudi; and in addition to this, a new forced loan of three millions of livres, payable in three terms, has been imposed. By order of the French commandant, national property to the amount of three millions has been sold, the money to be paid within a month, for maintaining the French troops. At the same time the requisitions were continued, and the remaining bishopricks, churches and monasteries, compelled, under the name of a patriotic donation, to furnish 30,000 shirts, 10,000 uniform coats, 20,000 pairs of shoes, and 1500 beds for the French army. Industry was totally annihilated, and the harbour of Ancona blocked up by the British.

Still more disgusting were the murmers of the people in the Ligurian republic. A new impost on salt, which was generally oppressive, and the suppression of monasteries and church establishments, that had been resolved on, served to increase the general discontents. An insurrection broke out at Lavagna, and still more violent commotions took place in Tarzana. Even at Genoa the legislators saw themselves exposed to the public insults of the people, and nothing but the strictest attention to military measures of precaution could maintain order.

In a similar state of dependence on the French, though for certain reasons somewhat less precarious, is the Grand Duke of Florence placed, who has heretofore endeavored to maintain a friendly understanding with the French rulers.

But a striking contrast is formed by the King of Naples, who opposed a noble fortitude and an unshaken firmness to the French revolutionary designs. A regular army of 80,000 men is ready to act for the defence of the country, while a militia of 100,000 men is constantly exercised in arms. All financial measures were taken, requisite to defray the expences of a war; a new bank deputation was established, a tax on the revenues ordained, some church goods sold, and new extraordinary resources resorted to, by which the income of the state has been augmented from six to twelve millions of ducats, and the government enabled to make effective operations. Gen. Mack, who was appointed captain general and commander in chief of all the Neapolitan forces, directs the plans of defence. While these measures were going on, the new French ambassador, Lecombe St. Michael had his first audience with the king whom he assured in the politest terms of the pacific and friendly disposition of the French Republic, his language being entirely the reverse of the former arrogant style of the Pentarchs. Nevertheless, misunderstandings become daily more serious, and the political horizon is still inveloped in darker clouds. A rupture is momently looked for, and thought to be unavoidable.

The Italian coasts were every where menaced with aggressions from the British; Malta as well as Minorca is blockaded, the commerce and navigation of the Mediterranean sea is interrupted by privateers; and the French, who intended to drive the British entirely from the Italian territories and from the Mediterranean sea, were forced to yield the empire of the sea to the English.

BOSTON, March 4.

From St. Pierre, Martinico, Feb. 1, '99.

"We have with us the Conſtitution, Capt. Nicholſon. We have met three 74's, four frigates, and a 98 gun ſhip, belonging to the Engliſh, who treat us with every poſſible civility. There are eleven American veſſels on the Weſt India ſtation.—We ſail this afternoon with a convoy of American veſſels to clear them of the iſlands, and to leave them under the charge of the George Waſhington, captain Fletcher. The Conſtitution has taken a ſhip, which had been taken by the French from the Engliſh, but her orders would not permit to detain her; which is a great deficiency in our inſtructions. The Vengeance, Engliſh 74, has taken in, and condemned, an American veſſel trading with Guadaloupe. What raſcals theſe are who trade with the foes of our country? Glorious news authenticated. There are in Guadaloupe, three 44 gun frigates, which with ſeveral privateers, will ſail in a few days for France; by reaſon of which the Commodore, with the Conſtitution and Merrimack are going immediately off Guadaloupe in queſt of them."

NEW-LONDON, March 6.

25,000 dollars were ſubſcribed at Hartford by ſix citizens of Norwich, to the loan of five millions.

Arrived laſt evening, ſloop Narciſſus, Hall, from St. Kitts, 21 days; came paſſenger Mr. Roſewell Saltonſtall of this city.

Sailed in company with ſhip Townſend, Lovering of Philadelphia; ſhip Preſident, Hedge, Boſton; brig Sufan, Lines, New-Haven; brig Betſey and Peggy, Baltimore; ſchr. Hiram, Updike, New-York; ſchr. Sally, Snow, Kennebunk; ſloop Diſpatch, Sanger, Norwich; ſloop Genet, Prindle, New-Haven, under convoy of the Richmond and the Norfolk, two American armed brigs.

In lat. 31, 46, long. 73, 40. ſpoke brig Experiment, A. Dolbrey, from Philadelphia bound to the Havanna.

HERE IT IS!!

Capt. Hall brings the highly pleaſing information of the capture of the Inſurgent, French frigate of 44 guns, by the American frigate Conſtellation, capt. Truxton, of 36 guns. The action took place off St. Kitts, in view of the Inhabitants; capt. Hall was an eye witneſs. As the fleet came out, the Conſtellation and her prize were going in.—The Norfolk ſpoke the Conſtellation, and received diſpatches from capt. Truxton, for the Secretary of War; which we underſtand were put on board the Narciſſus, as being one of the quickeſt ſailing veſſels in the fleet. The action continued between two and three hours, 55 minutes cloſe engagement. The French ſhip had 50 men killed, and loſt her mainmaſt. Capt. Truxton had 3 men, only, killed; the Conſtellation received no damage of conſequence.

Yeſterday was fired a true federal ſalute on the victory obtained by the Conſtellation. The true Americans aſſembled on the occaſion, and federal toaſts were drank. Amongſt others—

Captain Truxton and the officers of the Conſtellation.

May the Conſtitution whenever attacked, meet the ſame fate of the Conſtellation.

NEW-YORK, March 9.

We acknowledge our obligations to a gentleman of this city, for the loan of a file of Cork papers, received by the barque Pallas, arrived yeſterday, from Belfaſt, via Cork. The lateſt date is only to the 17th December, of courſe their contents have been principally anticipated, by our extracts from London papers to the 19th of the ſame month, received by the brig Trio. We ſelect the following articles:

DUBLIN, December 8.

Laſt night lord Caſtlereagh, and the marquis of Downſhire ſailed for England.

Lord Caſtlereagh, it is expected, will make but a ſhort ſtay.

The ſeveral ſtate priſoners in the New Priſon, who have ſigned a conſent to quit this kingdom, have received notice officially to take their departure for ſome foreign part not at war with Engand, in the courſe of a month, with the exception of captain Ruſſel, Matthew Dowling, and S. Neilſon, who, it is ſaid, will be detained here during the war.

A ſimilar notice was ſerved on the ſtate priſoners in Kilmainham goal, with the exception of Arthur O'Connor, John Sweetman, Dr. M'Nevin, and H. Jackſon, who, it is likewiſe aſſerted, will be detained till the end of the war.

If they do not comply with the above notice, they are, it is ſaid, to ſupport themſelves at their own expence.

The right hon. and hon. the judges, benchers, and members of the King's Inns ſociety, held their meeting in the laſt week, and ordered the names of Thomas Addis Emmett, William Sampſon, and Arthur O'Connor, to be ſtruck off the roll of barriſters.

December 13.

By a Gentleman of rank who arrived from London Tueſday evening laſt, we have the following intereſting account;

"Captain Sterling, of the Jaſon Frigate, reached London on Saturday; he come directly from Paris, where he was a priſoner on parole, in order to be exchanged; he reports that on the day of his leaving Paris, an account was received there that an action between the French and Auſtrians had taken place on the Rhine in conſequence of an attempt of the latter to relieve Ehrenbreitſtein, and that this action had terminated in the defeat of the French, who had loſt TWENTY FOUR THOUSAND men killed, amongſt whom was general Jourdan."

Captain Sterling further ſaith, "that a Pariſian Journaliſt had ventured to print this news, and ſo excited the diſpleaſure of the Directory, that himſelf, his preſs and papers were not only immediately ſeized, but all the perſons who had brought or read his papers were arreſted; and even Captain Sterling, who chanced to have been an auditor, was carefully ſearched leſt he ſhould carry a copy of the Journal to England."

NEW-YORK, March 9.

THE NAVAL VICTORY!

Capt. Schoff l, of ſloop Richard, arrived yeſterday in 23 days from St. Kitts, relates, that on the 10th of February he ſaw from the ſhore, by the help of his glaſs, an obſtinate engagement between an American and French frigate, which laſted for a conſiderable time—that he plainly perceived the fore and mizen maſt of the latter were ſhot away, and the colors were alſo ſhot away twice or three times. The mizen maſt of the American frigate was like wiſe ſhot away. The weather ſoon after proved hazy, he could not diſtinguiſh which veſſel was the victor. On the following morning he ſaw them ſtanding to leeward in company, but he could not learn the iſſue of the conteſt. The univerſal opinion however was, that the French ſhip ſtruck.

The diſpute between the Senate of Hamburg, and the Britiſh reſident in that city is ſaid to have been determined by the interference of the Britiſh cabinet, who have ſent over inſtructions to their agent, not to inſiſt on detaining Napper Tandy, Blackwell, and the other Iriſhmen in the military ſervice of France, lately arreſted at that place. Blackwell is ſaid to be an officer of very high repute, and has ſerved in ſeveral campaigns on the Rhine.—D. Adv.

A quarry of American Burr, for Mill Stones has lately been diſcovered near Pittsfield (Maſs.) ſaid to be equally as good as the French Burr.

A bill has been returned to the Senate from the Council of Reviſion without objection, for the incorporation of the Society of the Lying-In-Hoſpital, lately founded in this city.

NORFOLK, February 28.

To the Printers of the Norfolk Herald.

GENTLEMEN,

EVER an enemy to miſrepreſentation, I muſt beg of you to correct the ſtatement*, of the tranſaction between his Britannic Majeſty's ſhip Surpriſe of 32 guns, and the United States' ſhip Ganges under my command.

It is true, that captain Hamilton of the above ſhip did ſend an officer on board, requeſting information, whether any Engliſhmen were in my crew; obſerving that my aſſurance would be ſufficient to prevent an officer being ſent to examine their protections, I did not heſitate to ſay I conſidered all my crew Americans by birth or adoption—But I alſo obſerved to the officer, that there were no protections on board to my knowledge—the only one we carried in our public ſhips being our flag. This buſineſs terminated here. It is not true that the officer demanded a ſight of my commiſſion; but during his ſtay behaved with much politeneſs, and was in return, treated with all the civility I was capable of. Nor did I, as I have heard it repreſented, ſay any thing about my guns being a protection, if my flag was deemed inſufficient.

As ſoon as the boat put off a ſecond time to come on board the Ganges, being on the quarter deck with my officers, I declared to them my determination to fall there, ſooner than ſuffer an inveſtigrtion, or permit any man's name to be called over.

When the boat came along ſide again, it was with the ſurgeon; and with a polite meſſage from captain Hamilton, requeſting to aſſiſt him with ſome medicine he was in need of. But no apology was made for the meſſage ſent by the Lieutenant; nor was the ſubject thereof even mentioned by the doctor or myſelf.

Apprehenſive that a ſimilar circumſtance might occur on a future day I thought it incumbent on me, to let my people know what they had to truſt to. At evening, therefore, I cauſed all hands to be called, and when aſſembled, did pledge myſelf to them, that not a man ſhould be taken from me, by any force whatever, while I was able to ſtand at my quarters—which declaration they received with three cheers, and high ſpirits.

Extract of a letter from Lollor Cocke, purſer of the United States brig Richmond, to William Pennock, eſquire, received by the brig Peggy and Betsey, arrived here from St. Kitts, dated off St. Kitts, February 11.

DEAR SIR,

"I have the peaſure of informing you we this day at 11 o'clock, A. M. Baſſeterre roads bearing N. E. diſtant about 4 leagues, fell in with the United States frigate Conſtellation, captain Truxton, having in company the Inſurgente French frigate of 42 guns and 360 men, her prize, who ſtruck after loſing 50 men, and otherwiſe very much damaged. The Conſtellation loſt 3 men only. Captain Truxton gave us this information himſelf.

"From other information, we learn, the action commenced off Nevis, and after a long running fight they came to cloſe quarters off Sandy Point, when after a ſevere battle of one hour the French ſhip ſtruck.'

Captain Holmes, who was the bearer of the above letter, informs, that the day he left St. Kitts, he fell in with the Conſtellation and her prize, which appeared to have been very roughly handled, having her main maſt ſhot away; the rigging of the Conſtellation was a good deal ſhattered.

ANOTHER INSURRECTION

Has broken out in the Weſtern part of this State, which bears a more ſerious and formidable aſpect, than that of Gallatin and the other patriots in the mountains.

That active and ſpirited officer, Col. William Nichols, Marſhal of the Diſtrict of Pennſylvania, returned yeſterday to the city, from a journey to Northampton county, and immediately laid before the Preſident a detail of recent tranſactions there, of which the following we believe, will be found to be a correct outline:

A very ſerious oppoſition to the laws, had for ſome time manifeſted itſelf in the rebellious county of Northampton, and it became neceſſary for the Marſhal to aſſert the authority of government. He accordingly proceeded to the ſcene of inſurrection, and arreſted twenty three perſons, for ſundry acts of reſiſtance to the operation of the law impoſing a tax on houſes. The Marſhal had taken recognizances of the priſoners, and they ſubmitted to his authority with apparent acquieſcence.

On Friday evening, the Marſhal with nineteen of the arreſted perſons, being at the tavern of Abraham Levering, in Bethlehem, a body of horſe, to the number of ſixty, well armed, and part of them in uniform, beſet the houſe, and reſcued the priſoners. The party was compoſed of militia from the counties of Bucks, Montgomery and Northampton, and were commanded by a fellow who bears a captain's commiſſion in the militia of Montgomery county: he is a German, of the name of Fries. The Marſhal narrowly eſcaped ſevere perſonal violence, if not aſſaſſination.

We learn, from a variety of ſources on which we can rely, that a moſt rebellious diſpoſition pervades the whole county of Northampton, inſomuch that no man dare avow his attachment to government; and that a ſentiment of hoſtility to France, jeopardizes his life. A very reſpectable German clergyman, who had preached a ſermon inculcating ſubmiſſion to the conſtituted authorities and laws of the country, was inſulted by the brutal rabble at the doors of his own church, and called an Ariſtocratic Engliſh b——r.

Theſe diſturbances all refer directly to the political poſture of affairs between this country and France, and occaſion has been taken from a late appointment, thus to work up the plot to its criſis. A letter of a member of Aſſembly from that county, on this ſubject, couched in the moſt atrocious terms of miſrepreſentation and falſehood, is known to have produced a very extenſive effect.

One pleaſant circumſtance has grown out of this alarming intelligence—an immediate ſtir amongſt the volunteers, who are, we learn, to be immediately paraded for review, in order to be perfectly prepared for the defence of their government and country at a moment's warning.

Yeſterday clogged the ſtreets of the city, ſixty of the Sanſculotte privateerſmen from Lancaſter jail. They were marched from that place under guard of a detachment of Barton's Volunteer Blues, commanded by Enſign Reickart. The martial appearance and exact regularity of this fine body of men extorted even from the pride of Philadelphia volunteers, the free acknowledgment that in perſonal appearance or in martial diſcipline they are not exceeded by any corps extant.

A more helliſh groupe of dæmons, in appearance and reality, than the Republican citizens under guard, never graced a dungeon, or figured on a jibbet.

"The quality of Mercy is thrice bleſſed"—when judiciouſly applied; but when it is diſpenſed with a prodigal and undiſcriminating hand, like the exceſs of every other virtue, it becomes criminal, and in its operation, a praiſe to evil doers. A ſyſtem of univerſal forgiveneſs, is, in other words, a ſyſtem for univerſal crime; for mankind, when they behold no particular actions marked with odium; when they ſee the hand of juſtice ſlide gently over the offender; are prompted to believe that political virtue is no more than an imaginary line, like the aſtronomical meridian, drawn to aſſiſt the mind in performing inferior calculations; and when this idea becomes prevalent, we ſhall be a community of tygers.

JACOBIN PATRIOTISM.

A noted ſpeculating Jacobin was heard at the Coffee-Houſe loudly curſing the authors of the recent reſcue of the ſtate priſoners from the cuſtody of the Marſhal; a brother democrat who was aſtoniſhed at this change of note in his comrade, called him aſide, and aſked for an explanation of ſuch apparent inconſiſtency. Sir, ſaid the ſpeculator, perhaps you do not know that I have been buying 8 per cent ſcrip at an advance of 40 per cent on ſpeculation; and theſe damn'd raſcals having riſen without giving me time to ſell out, have of courſe loſt all claim to my friendſhip and good wiſhes; therefore, I pray they may all be hanged.

A FRIEND requeſts the following may find a place in the Gazette of the United States—the author had a true knowledge of what would promote the happineſs of mankind; and of his good principles; and the ſource from whence they were derived, no Chriſtian can doubt.

Epiſtle of Paul the Apoſtle to the Romans.

Chap. 13. Verſe 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.

1. Let every ſoul be ſubject unto the higher powers; for there is no power but of God: the powers that be, are ordained of God.

2. Whoſoever therefore reſiſteth the power, reſiſteth the ordinance of God: and they that reſiſt, ſhall receive to themſelves damnation.

3. For Rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? Do that which is good, and thou ſhalt have praiſe of the ſame:

4. For he is the Miniſter of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the ſword in vain: for he is the Miniſter of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

5. Wherefore ye muſt needs be ſubject, not only for wrath, but for conſcience ſake.

6. For this cauſe pay you tribute alſo: for they are God's Miniſters, attending continually upon this very thing.

7. Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due, cuſtom to whom cuſtom, fear to whom fear, honour to whom honour.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at the Havanna, to his friend in this city, dated January 31, 1799.

"There is no news here, except, that notwithſtanding there is an American ſloop of War (the Delaware, I believe) off our iſland, ſeveral American veſſels have been taken by two French privateers that are cruiſing between this and the Matanzas.—The crew of the veſſels have arrived here, and the veſſels are ſent to Guadaloupe, or are in ſome ſmall ports round the iſland, where they ſell every thing a la Francaiſe."

CAPTURE OF L'INSURGENTE.

(OFFICIAL.)

Extract of a letter from capt. Thomas Williams commander of the United States brig Norfolk, to the Hon. Benjamin Stoddard, Eſq. Secretary of the Navy, dated on board the Norfolk, off Sandy Point, St. Kitts, 11*th Feb.* 1799.

SIR,

Captain S. Barron and myſelf, receiving a fleet of American veſſels of 14 ſail under our convoy, while we were waiting at Baſſeterre Roads, St. Chriſtopher's for the fleet to come out, ſaw two ſail in the offing. I ſent captain Barron to reconnoitre them and ſpeak them, if friends, and join me off St. Euſtatia, which he did. The two ſail were commodore Truxton and his prize, the French frigate L'Inſurgente of 42 guns and 350 men, which commodore Truxton captured on the 9th inſt. after a cloſe action of 55 minutes. L'Inſurgente had 50 men killed; the Conſtellation had only three men killed. I underſtand that L'Inſurgente made a running fight for ſome hours before ſhe came to cloſe action; but could not get away from the Conſtellation. No other ſhips were engaged but thoſe two, nor any others in ſight. L'Inſurgente is the ſame ſhip that capt. Barney had with him ſo long in Virginia. The French ſhip loſt her mainmaſt in action and ſome of her topmaſts. The Conſtellation ſeems to have loſt the head of her fore and mizen topmaſt, and her fore yard ſeems to be a jury yard, but her mainmaſt, topmaſt and top gallant maſt are all well. I am now in ſight of both ſhips, ſay not more than five miles diſtance. His flag is flying at his maintop gallant maſt head, and L'Inſurgente, with the American enſign over the French, under the Conſtellation's quarter. On capt. Barron's aſking commodore Truxton if he wanted any aſſiſtance, he anſwered no, that his ſhip ſailed as well as before, and he had got the prize in a condition that he would ſoon be in the road of Baſſeterre, St. Kitts, which they are now beating up for. His officers are all well and unhurt. My crew are very healthy, but Mr. M'Rea, who is at ſick quarters, on ſhore, and has been ſick ever ſince he arrived here.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient ſervant,
THOS. WILLIAMS.

A letter from Martinique of the 26th Jan. from the Supercargo of the ſhip Spy, Weſt, of this port, ſays, "I was examined, on the ſtanding interrogatories, on the 14th—after peruſal of which the ſhip and papers were offered up to me, if I would ſign an acquittal for damages and demurage, amounting to 7094 dols. of which I rendered an account. The December Packet has arrived at New-York.

At a meeting of the volunteer troop of cavalry under the command of capt. Robert Wharton, held at Ogden's tavern, Philadelphia March 8th 1799,

The captain informed the troop that the office of Mayor of the city was underſtood by the attorney-general of the ſtate to be incompatible with his military command; that although his perſonal attachment to the troop would induce him to retain the latter, at the expence of the former ſtation, yet his friends appeared very ſolicitous that he ſhould continue in the magiſtrial chair: and that in conſequence of the above mentioned incompatibility and requeſt, he had returned his military commiſſion to the hands from which he received it, and would in future conſider himſelf as a private in the ranks.

Whereupon Lieutenant Robeſon took the chair.

When, on motion, it was unanimouſly reſolved,

That, although the troop feel the deepeſt regret at the loſs of a captain under whom they originally aſſembled and in whoſe conduct they have experienced every thing that could diſtinguiſh the friend and the gentleman; in whoſe character, activity, deciſion, and courage have often been evinced, and on whoſe military acquirements from the example he has already given, they had juſt reaſon to form the moſt flattering expectations: Yet conſidering how eminently uſeful he has already been as a Magiſtrate and how important it is to the welfare and honor of the city to have the Mayoralty in ſuch hands, they cannot refrain from joining with their fellow citizens; and do approve the determination; and with their unfeigned thanks for paſt conduct wiſh he may in every ſtation of life enjoy the higheſt ſtate of human felicity.

Reſolved unanimouſly, That a copy of the foregoing reſolution be preſented to the late captain, and that the ſecretary cauſe the ſame to be publiſhed.

TO THE

Promoters of Literature.

THE managers of the Beula Semiuary, impelled by motives of pure morality, having resolved to dispose of the following property by way of LOTTERY, in order to assist them in erecting a convenient building for the accommodation of one hundred students, and the necessary professors in the different departments of science—do offer for sale three hundred and fifty lots in BEULA, each fifty-eight feet by one hundred and twenty-five, at twenty dollars per ticket, each ticket entitled to a lot to be determined by ballot; ten dollars to be paid on receipt of the ticket, and the remaining ten on the delivery of the deed. The ballot to take place before impartial men, as soon as the whole number of tickets are sold.

The managers, anticipating the difficulty of obtaining cash for the whole, have resolved to receive an equivalent, for some of the lots, in select books; philosophical apparatus, or in produce and materials for building, delivered on the spot.

It may be observed, that the value of prizes in this lottery will be more than double the amount of all the tickets; for 350 lots, would at their average estimation, produce at least 15,750 dollars; whilst, according to the present proposals, the sum obtained for them will be only 7,000 dollars.

Tickets may be had during this winter, of Morgan J. Rhees, president of the board of managers, no. 177, south Second-street, Philadelphia; who will receive proposals and plans for the erection of the building. It is intended to be of brick or stone; its situation on the summit of a gradual rising eminence, commanding an extensive prospect of the surrounding country; an observatory to be on its top.

Land and out lots in the vicinity of the Town may be had on moderate terms by applying as above. Mechanics and laborers, of good morals will meet with encouragement.
